Achieve your goals – No matter what the future brings...

The pressure to deliver is unrelenting. You're expected to do "more with less," with uncertainty being the only certainty. It's time for a new business as usual.

This is where I help. Through capability building, research, or new operating models, I help you accelerate progress to achieve your goals. No matter what the future brings.

I am the co-founder and current Head of Advocacy & Thought Leadership at the Business Agility Institute, a fiercely independent research and advocacy organization for the next generation of companies. In this role, I lead research initiatives, collaborate with corporate members on their stickiest business challenges, and share insights and aha's to accelerate their business success.
